

Panche Kralev currently serves as the President of the Board of Directors of Makedonski Telekom (Deutsche Telekom Group). Prior to his current position he has worked for six years for the Government of the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia in a variety of capacities including Minister of Education and Science and Advisor to the Prime Minister. He also has vast experience in the private sector including associate positions in Raiffeisen Investment and the SEAF private equity fund. Recently he completed his Mid Career MPA from Harvard University and has previously obtained an MSc from the University of Bristol in Economics and Finance and a BA in Business Studies from the University of Sheffield (CITY College).